Reading the historical atlas

Scope, comparison rules, and data edition

82 seasons, 1945-2026. The atlas has one page for every recorded regular season, preceded by the Top 50. It includes NFL and AFL teams; AAFC games remain outside the PRPR source. Team names follow the season, including relocations and defunct franchises.

Same metric, defensive grouping. Each opposing passer appearance is assigned to the defense faced. PRPR against pools the existing accuracy and production components; lower is better. The original causal references are retained. The scale is uncapped and has not been recentered across defenses.

Formula. N = pass attempts + carries. W = passing yards + rushing yards + 80 x (passing TD + rushing TD) - 100 x interceptions - 50 x player fumbles. Each reference uses REG appearances with at least 10 pass attempts in the strictly preceding three calendar years, excluding all same-day games. NFL and AFL references are separate before the 1970 season.

For appearance i, let p_i be prior mean completion fraction, q_i prior mean W/N, and s_i the prior raw-rating SD. Aggregate PRPR = 100 + 25 x [(250/3) x SUM((C_i - A_i p_i)/s_i) / SUM(A_i) + (25/6) x SUM((W_i - N_i q_i)/s_i) / SUM(N_i)]. Only supported rated observations enter those sums and denominators. This is not an average of game ratings.

Top 50 eligibility. The regular season must be finished; every expected defensive fixture must be represented; all captured required inputs must be available; and every captured reference must be mature and nonprovisional. The unfinished 2026 season, raw-only warmup, and partial/provisional seasons remain visible in their own season pages but cannot enter the Top 50. Completed shortened seasons remain eligible, with their game counts visible.

Observed cohort. The source covers quarterbacks and historical passing specialists, including some older players with other position labels. This data edition adds missing low-volume QB seasons and remaining games of already represented historical passers. Complete observed coverage certifies fixture coverage and the captured cohort; it is not an all-position census. Other-position trick passes and pure-rusher activity are outside the metric's scope.

Historical gaps remain explicit. Missing fumbles are not filled with zero. Unsupported rows are omitted from rated denominators and flag the season as partial. Some zero-attempt historical QB seasons expose only defensive tables, so their rushing/fumble activity cannot be verified. The accompanying audit records these cases. Modern defensive fixtures are matched exactly to the schedule; older years reconcile team-specific date counts with official expected season lengths.

New data work. 17 team-identity corrections were necessary. The edition adds 595 meaningful regular-season appearances. Each added passing appearance has fewer than 10 attempts, so the existing normalization population is unchanged. All captured historical passer-season passing totals are independently reconciled against the official census.

Interpretation. There is no adjustment for opponent quarterback quality, schedule, weather, or game state. Sacks have no separate term. Quarterback/historical-passer fumbles count regardless of recovery and need not have been forced by the defense. Historical stat conventions and all-role fumble attribution remain as documented in v1.0.

Sources and reproducibility. NFL.com official player game logs, season passing censuses and split tables; nflverse player statistics and fixture data; Pro Football Hall of Fame franchise and schedule histories. A small set of historical exception passing lines comes from Pro Football Archives, reconciled to official NFL totals. The package retains source URLs, hashes, mappings, input snapshots, audit results, and calculation code.
